The latest in our 2023 video interview series with leaders on the topics which matter to people

Ahead of the local council elections on Thursday (04 May 2023), CIBUK and Brexit Facts4EU talked to Dr Teck Khong, the leader of the The Alliance for Democracy and Freedom Party (ADF) about the party's policies.

This 18-minute video interview covers immigration, climate change, Brexit, foreign policies, the NHS, the response to the Covid pandemic, globalism, the World Economic Forum, and more.

Still a young organisation, Dr Khong was keen to stress the positive alternative to traditional Conservative/Labour politics which ADF presents to ordinary people.

Summary

The Alliance for Democracy and Freedom Party

For readers who have not yet heard of the Alliance for Democracy and Freedom, we asked Dr Khong to summarise. Here is what he said :-

"It's been the primary mission of the Alliance for Democracy and Freedom to be the third force in British politics.

"The reason we want to achieve that is we know that a lot of people out there are sick and tired of the shenanigans in Parliament between Labour and Conservative, while the people are losing out.

"None of us in the ADF party have any egos, no illusions about a name change moving forward as as a different entity. But we really need – if you're sincere about serving the people – we need to start somewhere. And as far as the local elections are concerned, I think yes, first and foremost, our Council candidates would look to serve the people on local issues. And they are actually free from being whipped because we want our candidates who become Counsellors to respond directly to the issues, to the residents they represent."

– Dr Teck Khong, Leader, The Alliance for Democracy and Freedom, 27 Apr 2023

Observations

Both CIBUK and Facts4EU are non-partisan but as advocates of free speech we believe in giving a voice to all political opinions.

As readers know, it is challenging in the UK to launch a new political party, as a result of our 'first past the post' electoral system and because of the difficulties in getting coverage on mainstream media outlets.

We hope readers found the interview interesting and welcome your comments below. We also ask readers to 'like' and 'subscribe' to the YouTube channel.
